

Rebeca Fernández , FoodDrinkEurope

Rebeca Fernández holds a Master's Degree in Food Technology and a PhD Degree in Biology from the University of Oviedo (Spain), where she has worked as a researcher, assistant lecturer and project manager. After a short period working in the European Commission on issues related to food safety, she joined FoodDrinkEurope in September 2014 as Manager in Food Policy, Science and R&D. She provides support on food science related issues and manages European research projects. She also coordinates the European Technology Platform 'Food for Life'.